> A family Trouble. It is a very common occurrence in hese unsettled times to have family proils as well as numerous other roubles to contend with, but the latest and probably the most supremev ridiculous event of the kind on reord, was brought to light yesterday t Squire Van Amringe's Court. Main Parker, a negro man, sued out on esterday a warrant for the errest of is wife, Martha, who he alleged in he affidavit was guilty of very aughty conduct in keeping a disorhouse. It seems that Parker and s wife had separ sted some time since. aring a family broil, in which melee Parker had his pate cracked with a broom-stick. Lately his wife has fallen a prey to the insinuating voice of a gay lothario, and now he wisnes to regain possession of her. No flattering promises, however, could induce the former spouse to return to the arms of her lord, and Parker, with a lurking spirit of revenge with n his tranquil bosom, seeks the court n the hope that justice will be dealt out on the square, and he pictures to amself the lovely form of his angel bserving him through the ten of hamonds, beseechingly imploring him to release her from bondage. For thirteen nundred years the Iron Crown has ield the foremost place among the hadems of Europe, for it was formed by the skillful hands of Roman Goldsmiths in the sixth century, and sent by Pope Gregory the Great to the iothic Queen Theodolinda, when she had freed Lombardy from the Arian archopes of his recovery. heresy. Its form is simple, as one might expect from its ancient date. But inside this circle of gold and jewels is a thin band of iron, from which the crown takes its name, and this iron, tradition asserts, s one of the nails of the true cross hammered out into a ring. Long and angry have been the battles fought by antiquaries on this point. Those who deny its authenticity, headed by Muratori, certainly bring weighty arguments to the support of their view; but the tradition has survived all then learned folios, gallant champions have tought pen in hand in its defense, and still in the language of the people the crown of Monza is called it sacro choido, 'theboly nail.'
